THE MID-WEST TENNESSEE GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY is proud to announce the publication of "Riverside Cemetery Inscriptions" as its Bicentennial project. The 130 pages represent many hours spent at the cemetery by a dozen or more Society members who live in Jackson and countless additional hours in indexing and getting it ready for the printer.

"Riverside Cemetery was established in 1830. Many of the regions pioneers are buried here. Included are veterans of all wars from the Revolution to World War II.

"In two sections lie unmarked Confederate soldiers who participated in the defense of Jackson during the War Between The States 1861-65.

"HERE SLEEPS THE FOUNDERS OF JACKSON"

The above two paragraphs are taken from an historical marker placed by the State of Tennessee at the entrance to the cemetery which is located on Riverside Drive in Jackson, Tennessee.

It was decided to make this a project of the society when we were unable to locate even one copy locally of a listing made some 40 years ago by the Works Progress Administration. The Tennessee State Library and Archives had only one copy which they copied for us. There have been many burials in the cemetery since that time and some errors have been corrected. Riverside Cemetery was not the first city burial ground in Jackson, but when streets were laid out at the site of the original burial ground, the bodies from that cemetery were removed to the Riverside location. Hence some death dates may preceed the 1830 date. Many of the oldest stones are no longer legible, however.

UNITED STATES IMMIGRATION AND NATURALIZATION

Ronald A. Bremer, A. G.

(Adapted from a lecture delivered before The Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania, September 1972, and shared with us by the author.)

Theme: "You should never try to locate an immigrant ancestor in the country of origin until you have performed general searches in all of the jurisdictions where he lived in the country of destination."

Reasons for Migrating: During the colonial period most immigrants came for religious reasons. Immigration during the last century was primarily for economic reasons and the motivation during this century was social. Almost every family seems to have a tradition which states that "three brothers came to America to escape the draft. One jumped ship and married an Indian princess." Some of our ancestors came as slaves or convicts. Most came as indentured servants.

Colonial Period: It is important to remember that the Crown did not naturalize British subjects. Also, many Germans found that merely by taking the Oath of Allegiance they could both own land and vote. Hence, many were never naturalized. The first colonial naturalizations were in the late 1600's.

Federal Period: The largest or peak period of immigration occurred during the period from the 1870's to the 1920's. During the federal period, individuals could be naturalized in any court of record. Records of naturalization are then found in both federal and state courts. Most were naturalized in a county court which is part of the state court system.

New England: It is reportedly very difficult to trace an early New Englander due to the sparsity of records and some record destruction. The opposite is usually true. It is interesting to note that Mr. Powell, in his book "Puritan Village", was able to locate the overseas home of 32 of the 33 original settlers of Sudbury, Massachusetts.

Eastern Seaboard: One of the most helpful books on this subject is Dr. Jean Stephenson's "Scotch-Irish Migration to South Carolina. It is really a book on general Scotch-Irish migration.

National Archives: Most of the important early federal records pertaining to immigration are located in the National Archives. These include: passenger lists, shipping lists, some naturalizations and other records.

Federal Records Centers: Most of the important federal court and many naturalization records for each of the various states have been deposited in one of the fifteen federal records centers. The indexes to the Federal District Courts are usually still located in the federal district courthouses.

U. S. Government: Many aliens, immigrants, and citizens appear in the records of the various government agencies, especially Congress. Often individuals petitioned directly to Congress.

Immigrant Aid Societies: Most of the various ethnic groups early formed these special societies or groups to help encourage emigration. One of the earliest of these was The Scots Charitable Society of Boston, which was founded in 1657. The German Society was founded in Philadelphia in 1764, and the Hibernian Society Started in 1812.

1900 Federal Census. There are over thirty items of information on this census. They are: street house number, visitation order, family order, name, relationship, color, sex, birth month, birth year, age, marital status, place of birth, parents place of birth, year immigrated, years in U. S., naturalization, occupation, months unemployed, attended school, can read, can write, can speak English, own or rent, clear or mortgaged, farm or house, and number of farm schedule.

Court Records: There are two systems of courts in America. They are federal and state. It is estimated that about ten per cent of the population during the last century litigated in a federal court. As an average an individual appeared in court once every seven years or three times every twenty years.

Spheres of Authority: How many different jurisdictions or record-creating agencies did our ancestors reside in during thier lifetime? It is not unusual to locate over one hundred separate documents or sources for an individual living in the mid-1800's, for example. The national average for the last three hundred years seems to be at least twenty-five.

Insurance Records: Insurance companies have been operating in this land since the mid-1700's. Most of our ancestors since that time have taken out or at least applied for one life insurance policy in their lifetime. Usually these original applications are still on file in the home office of the company concerned. Another type of insurance company which has existed, especially since the late 1800's is the alliance or fraternal insurance company.

Naturalizations: How do you find out where your ancestor was naturalized? If this event occurred after 1906, a copy of the record concerned should be in Washington, D. C. in the Department of Immigration and Naturalization. For those occurrding prior to this date, one of the best locating devices in this regard, is the voting list.

That I was born in the County of Entrim, Ireland on the twenty second day of December in the year of our Lord 1758. When I was fourteen years of age, my father, self and family emigrated from Ireland and landed after a tolerable short passage at Savannah in the State of Georgia. From there we went to Burke County where we remained a short time, then we moved to Augusta in Georgia where I entered the Service of the United States as a volunteer soldier in the year (as well as I now recollect) 1779 under Captain James Martin and Col. McMurphy. As soon as the regiment was raised, we was attached to General Howe and a very few days after our junction with him we took up our line of march for the Floridas going by the way of St. Tillies river and St. Maries River, here we called a halt and remained five days. The army was at this time very sickly and the Officers thought it prudent to march home, so we returned home near the same way that we marched out, and was discharged in Augusta, do not now recollect the date. In this Expedition or tour I cannot say positively how long I served, but I am positive I served not less than six months, for which servises I claim a Pension. I did not recieve any written discharge nor can I tell the reason why.

On the 27th day of October in the year 1782, I again entered the service of the United States as a volunteer soldier in Burke County, State of Georgia for the term of three months under Captain Alexander Erwin. As soon as the Company was made up we march to a place called Eberneasor on the Savannah River, there we was attached to General Wayne. We remained in Garrison at this place for a long time guarding that place from the British and to keep them from assending the river, hear I was discharged after my turn of three Months was out. I do not recollect of ever getting a discharge, if I did it is now lost or destroyed.

He has no Documentary Evidence and that he knows of no person whose testimony he can procure who can testify to his servises. He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a Pension or Annuity except the present and declares that his name is not on the pension roll of the agency of any State.

LEWIS M. EDGAR, (AUTO)BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH

(From "A History of the Primitive Baptist in the Western Districts of Kentucky and Tennessee", written in 1882.)

Lewis M. Edgar was born in Logan County, Ky. on the 19th day of February, 1805, but did not remain there very long. My father moved in December 1809 to the north-east part of Montgomery county, Tenn., where he lived but three years. During that time, I was sent to an old field school master, and learned to read. In the early part of 1813, he moved again, some two or three miles into Christian county, Ky., which afterwards, became Todd county, in the vicinity where Guthrie city now is. I had to work hard. Sometimes went to school a few weeks, to but little profit.

When I was about thirteen, or fourteen years old, when I would hear preaching, it would cause serious impressions on my mind, for several days, inquiring how these things could be, but they would wear off of my mind, until I heard them preached again, and those serious reflections would return and then gradually go off again, until I was about seventeen years old. The thought was suggested to me that if there was any reality in these things, they would not vanish away, as they did, and for near two years, I strove to disbelieve that, there was any reality in religion--that everything came by chance, and would go in like manner.

During my nineteenth year, I went to school to try to improve my education, not thinking or caring about religious matters.

But in January, 1824, my father moved to the western district of Tennessee, Henry county. The county was thinly settled. We built some little cabins and got them tolerably well fixed. I had to work hard to clear land, and try to make a support.

Shortly after we came to the county, my mind again became arrested--it seemed to come with force and power that I could not resist, that there was a reality in the religion of Jesus Christ, and that I had been rebellious against a good God and was a sinner, I thought I must do something to get better than I was.

I will state here that, when I was a small boy I resolved that, I would never engage in profane swearing, which pledge I have kept until now. Gambling and drunkenness I protested against, and I never had been in a ball-room, or dancing yard, and I declare now, that is not the way to follow Jesus Christ. But notwithstanding I was clear of these vices, I was a sinner, and how to get out of it, was the question. Trying to pray seemed to be of no avail. I read the Scriptures, which declared that Jesus was a Savior, but he was not my savior.

My sins seemed to increase, and I would sometimes try to hide my troubles, by merriment, with such company, but when absent from them, my case was worse. I could not work, for I would find myself standing in a study about my situation; at length one Sunday morning I walked to a place where there were some young people, that I had previous to that time passed off some time with, but I suppose I had not hid my sorrows, as much as common. A young lady said to me. "I believe you are trying to get good," which was a death blow to me. It seemed that my sorrows were not hid from the world, and now what shall I do? I left that place--spent the day walking about, studying, what would become of me? It seemed that all nature looked gloomy; I thought the little birds were better off than I was. It seemed that, if I could change situations with the brute creation, it would be better for me. I believed that Jesus was a savior of sinners, but I was one unnoticed, and passed by, and that my days were about to end in sorrow.

The 27th of May, 1824, was a gloomy day with me; it seemed that it was my last day in this world. When the night came on, and when the family retired I lay down as usual, and when the light died out in the house, it seemed that I was never to see the light any more. The breathings of my soul were prayer to God, for his mercies. It seemed that in a few minutes my lot would be cast where hope nor mercy never could come. I thought if I went, I would go praying, and when I had given up all for lost, unexpectedly, that trouble was removed, that burden of mind was gone, and Jesus appeared in my mind, as my Savior. It seemed that by faith I could view him with expanded arms, and I believed he had appeared to remit my sins. Joy filled my soul--nothing troubled my mind, until about the next evening, when something said to my mind, "perhaps you are mistaken, and have missed the true substance," and my prayer was that if I am deceived, undeceive me. That has been my prayer from that time until now. I have had some joyful time, and sometimes in the dark. I set a time often to go to the church, to see if they would have me, but would think creation, it would be better for me. I be that, perhaps I might do something, that would be reproachful to the cause of God, and I did not wish to do that. So I kept from joining the church, until the 27th of November, just six months, and was baptised the next day. Then there was something else, weighing on my mind, which was on my mind while under conviction I believed that, if the Lord ever spoke peace and pardon to my soul, I would have to preach Christ, the way of salvation. This weight was on my mind, so that, it could have no peace.

About the second Sunday in October 1826 I let the people know what was on my mind, and commenced from that time, to try to preach, and soon found I could not preach; and tried to quit, and could not rest in that situation. I had an elder brother if the Lord would call him, he could preach, as I thought--but he did not.

Something over two years after my commencing, I thought I would marry, and I would have an excuse, to stay at home. I was married the 12th day of February, 1829, but that did not relieve my mind from preaching. The duty of preaching was greater, but, I was slow of speech, and of stammering tongue, and could not preach. After trying, and quitting for about nine years, until the fourth Sunday in June, 1835, the church at Walnut Fork, had a prayer meeting appointed, and I spoke of going, and my companion, opposed it, and it seemed that I was tied where two ways met. But I started and went on crying for about two miles and when I got to the place, the brethren were looking for me to preach. But I soon left the meeting-house--it seemed like I had the heaviest burden that any person could bear. I tried to read for consolation. At length I became reconciled to be anything that, the Lord should make of me, and bear all the scoffs and persecutions the world could vent, in all its malice. I have never set any resolutions to quit preaching, since that time--but have been trying to declare the plan of salvation, and glorious scheme of redemption through Christ. My companion was very much opposed to my leaving home, to go to preach, but she never tried to throw any obstruction in my way to keep me from going, but had everything ready as far as she could do when she had timely notice. After our children began to get large enough to attend to the business, and carry on the work of making a support, she became more reconciled to my going. We lived together nearly fifty years, had 8 children, and raised 6, which are yet living.

I was ordained, on the third Sunday in November, 1843, by a presbytery, composed of Elders James Morphis, David Clark, and Thomas Valentine. But my ministry has been limited, and I have not traveled extensively, as many other preachers. But I have been trying to declare to the churches that, I have had the care of, what I understand to be, the way of salvation. I have never sought after preferances, or appointments among the Baptists, but wherever the church or Associations said I should work, I went at it, with as much cheerfulness as any person. I have served the Association as Clerk about thirteen years, and Moderator a few times, and when they said some other person was their choice, I gave up cheerfully. I have always contended against anything in the church, or Association, that, I thought contrary to sound doctrine, or good order--contending against all the worldly institutions of the present day, coming into the church, but let the world have them as they belong to them. I have already said, my wife and I lived together about 50 years; she died on the 29th day of September, 1878. She was a Baptist before we ever married and was much esteemed by the Baptists. She was agood, nice, saving house-keeper. I have been living a lonely life, but am going and preaching as much as I can. I am now in my 77th year. I have kept the faith, and trust there is a crown of righteousness laid up for me, that the Righteous Judge will give me and all those that love His appearing, and His Kingdom. So my beloved brethren farewell in christian love.
